

NOTES:

SKETCH-MAP: Blue: rivers covered
 Red: settlements covered
 Green: present political boundaries.

Most rivers have been identified but few settlements. The Map Library can supply current detailed maps on which these settlements may appear, and a good hydrographical map of Poland.

FORMS OF NAMES: Not consistent within MS 113: usually some form of Polish and/or German, often badly spelt. The present official Columbia Gazetteer spellings follow Polish, Russian, or Rumanian forms, according to the present political divisions. In the CONTENTS MS 113(text) has been followed; MS 113(map) is in square brackets; other forms in parentheses.

ABBREVIATIONS & GLOSSARY: Words often used in the headings have been abbreviated in the Contents as follows:

W. : Wasserbau: structure in or on water.

Most of the maps have been named after a settlement or a Dominio in the area, making the geographical name into an adjective by adding -er.

DATE. Bookseller suggested 1830-1835.

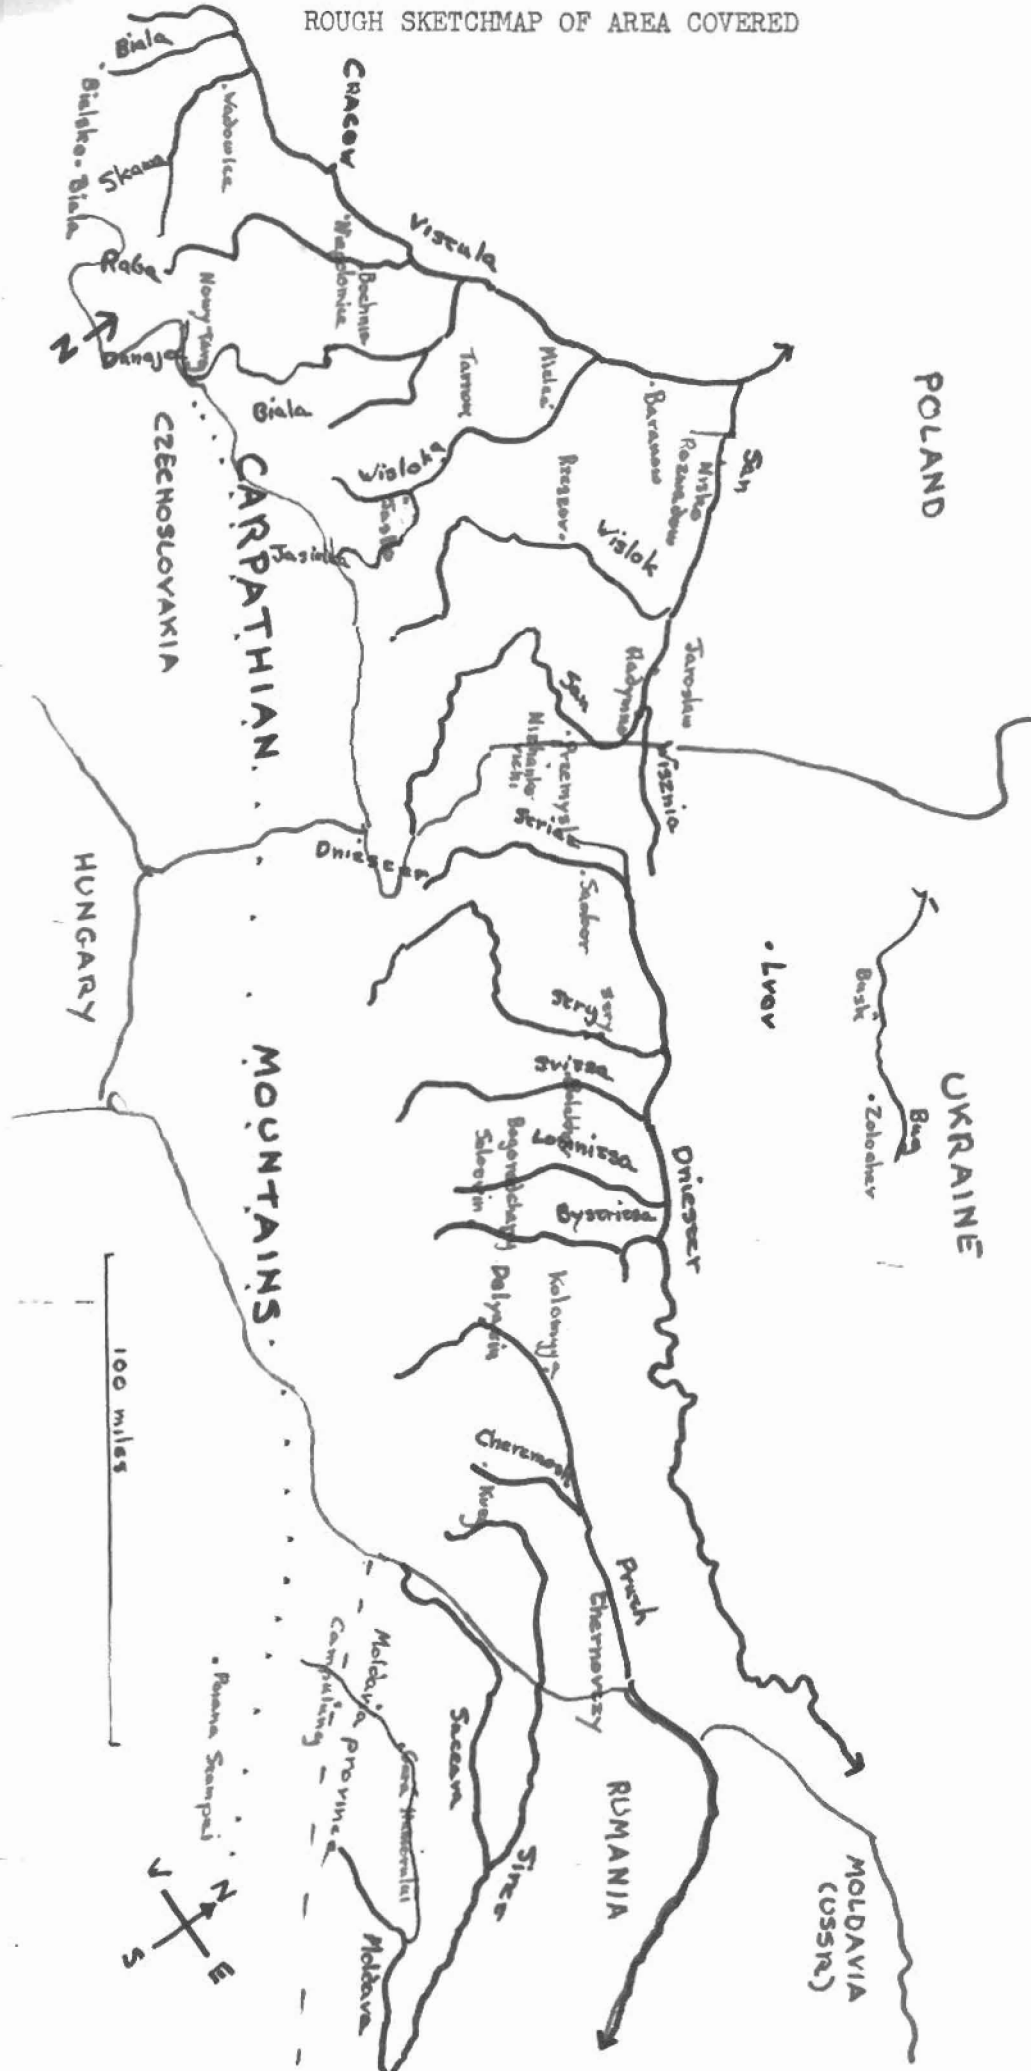

HISTORY. GALICIA. (Galicja, Galizien, Galitsiya, Halicz, Galich

A 12th cent. kingdom which kept changing hands between Hungary, Poland, and Russia. On the first partition of Poland, in 1772, the kingdom of Galicia and Lodomaria came to Austria, and to this was added the district of New or West Galicia in 1795. At the Peace of Vienna (1809) West Galicia and Cracow became ^{part of} the Grand Duchy of Warsaw (and in 1815 Cracow became an independent republic). In 1810 part of East Galicia was given to Russia. At the Peace of Paris (1814) Austria recovered East Galicia; in 1846 Austria annexed Cracow. In 1919 Galicia was given to Poland; in 1945 most of East Galicia became part of the Ukrainian SSR.

BUKOWINA. (Bukovina, Bucovina

A region in NE Rumania and W. Ukrainian SSR, between the Carpathians and the Dniester. Chernovtsy in the Ukraine is the chief center. Historical nucleus of Moldavia, whose first capital was Suceava. Ottoman Empire ceded it to Austria in 1775 and it was made a district of Galicia. In 1848 became an autonomous crownland; in 1918 to Rumania; in 1947 North Bukowina to Russia.
